Letter from the president

Welcome back everyone! The summer has flown quickly and it's time to begin again.

The last year and a half have changed us all in some ways, and some people have experienced major life changes, by necessity or choice. We have all had to do our best to “keep calm and carry on” under strange and difficult circumstances. Now, just when we thought things would be returning to normal, it all continues. This has me thinking about persistence.

Artists know about this! Although we mostly enjoy the process of making our art, we also struggle with frustration, thinking, “why am I doing this?” when our vision for our work is not coming to fruition. Or when we keep having the same problems with our work over and over. Or when the tedious parts seem to override the creative, fun parts. Or when we struggle to figure out what our own style even is.

Yet we persist. To achieve any kind of mastery requires persistence. Think of the Olympic athletes, whose lives revolve around their sport for years to achieve such a high level. We are like them! We too make sacrifices and work hard, driven by the desire to create something that truly expresses some part of us.

Our featured artist for this month's newsletter is Maria Bouman. Maria has practiced her technique for painting on porcelain with oil for many years, and has achieved mastery of her medium. Those judges who award her work and patrons who purchase her work recognize this mastery. I was impressed by her skill when I watched her demonstrate her technique a few years ago. I hope you enjoy reading about her.

May this new season of the Beaver Valley Artists bring inspiration to all of us!

Jennie

Please note: For this meeting, although it is not required, I encourage people to wear masks to help protect each other and our extended community. Thank you!

MARIA BOUMAN

Maria is an artist of many forms. She paints in oil on canvas, is a seamstress, and is most known for painting roses and grapes on porcelain tiles, vases, and other items.

Maria's work is elegant in style. She has won many awards and has sold paintings locally as well as in Florida and Europe.

Maria was born and raised in the Netherlands, and there she studied tailoring, sewing, and dress pattern making before coming to America in 1954. The Netherlands tradition of delft painting was a starting point for the oil on porcelain painting that Maria does now.

Maria is mostly self taught through many hours of painting. Her porcelain painting technique involves mixing oil with special powdered pigments, and then painting in layers that are fired in between the layers. She describes the process as challenging but not stressful, because until it is fired, the oil paint stays workable, so she is not afraid to do it all over again if she is not satisfied with the end result. At one time Maria taught her technique to others in her home studio. She was also the subject of an article in the Beaver County Times that explained her process.

Pam Wenger Weekend Watercolor Portrait Workshop Saturday, Oct. 2 and Sunday Oct. 3 from 9am to 4pm

Pittsburgh Watercolor Society is delighted to present a Weekend Watercolor Portrait Workshop with Pam Wenger. Pam is a retired teacher who has won numerous awards from the American Watercolor Society (AWS), National Watercolor Society (NWS), Pennsylvania Watercolor Society, Pennsylvania's "Art of the State", and Baltimore Watercolor Society's Mid Atlantic shows. Pam's work has been featured in Splash Magazine, in Artist's Magazine, and she has worked with Charles Reid and Ted Nuttal. Pam's art can be viewed on her website at www.pamwenger.com and on Facebook at facebook.com/pamwengerwatercolor.

Pam Wenger
"connects with people through their expressions, their poses, their placement in a composition."

At the workshop, participants will learn to paint watercolor portraits in a spontaneous style that involves minimal layering and the use of transparent colors. Students should be comfortable with painting in watercolor, but do not need to have experience with portrait drawing or painting. Experienced artists may work freehand, but drawings printed on watercolor paper will be provided for all participants so that those who want to focus on the painting process without spending too much time drawing can do so.

As the workshop is cumulative and sequential, participants must attend both Saturday and Sunday of the workshop. (Friday evening attendance is optional.) CDC and state health guidelines will be followed during this in-person workshop. Also, Pam is an experienced Zoom workshop presenter who will mail all references and watercolor papers to participants in the event the workshop goes online.
